

Women at Work: Research, Policy and Practice

This book presents a new and contemporary look at the critical and important issues associated with women at work. It examines these issues at the level of government, of business, and of the individual, and this enables and evaluation of the progress of women at work within the institutional and legislative framework in Australia. Women at Work: Research, Policy and Practice deals with a number of emerging trends such as superannuation, pay inequality, gender regimes, negotiation, and contemporary issues in leadership. It also examines more recently changes in legislation such as the introduction of the Fair Work Act 2009 in Australia, the impact on women at work based on these changes and the proposed changes to the Equal Opportunity for Women in the Workplace Act. Although the scope of this work relates to generic issues for women at work in Australia, the content has far-reaching policy and practice implications for women in most countries; particularly women at work in the Asia Pacific region. Women at Work represents the most up-to-date research in the area, and covers contemporary issues with an emphasis on practical application.

My curiosity got the best of me the other day and I gave in by watching one of those "End of the World" conspiracies videos. This time around the date is set for July 29, 2016. So in three days the biblical prophecies will come true and we will be swallowed up by hell fire while the others who are "saved" will rejoice in the heavens.
