

Break the Parenting Code: How NLP turns you into the Best Parent Overnight (NLP Self-Improvement Series Book 2)

2. Break the Parenting Code Most of us claim that we know their children well, but we just dont seem to understand why our children just wont listen to them. When our children refuses to listen to us, we will choose to yell at them, or spank them, thinking they will be intimidated. Nevertheless, we have forgotten that teenagers have bigger fists than we do. In fact, we always have this misconception that our kids do not know anything. We believe that we need to teach them, guide them, but we end up tying them up, not allowing them to make any mistake. In the end, when our kids grow up, they start to neglect what we say. We will then start feeling that our kids do not love us. Next, we start to use even drastic measures to control our kids, but it just seems to be going nowhere. However, we cannot miss the fact that it is outright wrong to just let our kids go their own way. It is just that we do not know how to communicate with someone who we love but is of a different generation from us. Moreover, our kids always have different experiences compared to us, resulting into different mentalities. So what should we do? Allow Ted Carnegie to share with us some foolproof NLP strategies on how to communicate with your kids. These strategies include simple actions such as closing your eyes and imagining scenarios etc. that help assist in kickstarting a better relationship with us and ours kid!
