

Czech taxes for Dummies 2013: A Simple and Understandable Guide for Freelancers

If you feel like a dummy when you have to file a tax return, you might feel like begging for help or for an easy guide in English on how to do it. Learning even some simple facts can help you complete your taxes by yourself and to save money that you would normally pay to a tax advisor. Czech taxes are not complicated, but you need to know some basic principles. This guide should help foreigners who want to start their business in the Czech Republic and who want to be oriented in Czech taxes, insurance and other requirements. The guide is focused on freelancers and their problems. Followings are the most typical questions that you will have when starting your business here in the Czech Republic (CR). You will find answers to these and other questions in this guide: Do I need a Trade license for my business in CR? Where to register my business? Do I need to register as a VAT payer? How do I fill in an Income tax return? Do I need to pay Social and Health Insurance (SHI)? How do I do the bookkeeping? Do I need to register for Road tax? What is Working contract and must I pay SHI from the salary?
