

Living With Dementia - A Sons Story

Julie Spices eldest son, Robin, has written a moving account of how he and his brother Howard tried to help their mother as she succumbed increasingly to dementia. The narrative starts with the first realisation that something was wrong and describes a sons feelings of helplessness as he stumbles down an unknown path taking many wrong turns on the way and coming up against several dead-ends, until finally his beloved mother reaches the end of the road. The painful journey is recalled in detail in the hope that others who will travel the same path will find some help and perhaps comfort from knowing that in their feelings of apprehension, bewilderment and frustration, which are inevitable in this situation, they are certainly not alone.

So in three days the biblical prophecies will come true and we will be swallowed up by hell fire while the others who are "saved" will rejoice in the heavens.
