

The Ocean-Biker: On Dreams, Daring and Collaboration

The Ocean-Bikers adventure shows us: pursue your dream and all is possible! A personal testimony of an inspirational sportsman. Why would a non-swimmer want to cross the Atlantic from Dakar to Brazil in a boat-bike? Is this simply another attempt to get into the Guinness World Records? No, the Persian-Dutchman Ebrahım Hemmatnia (b. 1976) cycled on sea and land from Dakar in Senegal to Sao Paulo in Brazil because he had a vision. His daring trip was an extreme personal quest to draw attention to his ideal: a world with no borders. It was an extremely tough and risky journey. Hemmatnia recounts how his audacious plan was born and how he persevered, even though most people thought he was crazy. With boundless energy he succeeded in finding a growing number of supporters who believed in his project and ultimately showed to the world that ordinary people can do extraordinary things if they know their goals. So, in the winter of 2014-2015 Ebrahım cycled to South America, alone in his 3-meter carbon amphibious boat / bicycle, built according to his wishes. A truly mindboggling and risky adventure. The 1.473,27 miles were tough. In the middle of the Atlantic he encountered pirates, and survived several attempts by aggressive sharks to sink the boat, and was reported missing due to the loss of his back-up mobile. As reader you are treated to descriptions of his hardship, and perseverance against all odds being surrounded by endless waves, plastic soup, sharks and the occasional bird.??? Guinness Book of Records - Longest Journey by Amphibious Cycle. The courageous crossing of 2.371 kilometers by this persevering first-class cyclist got him into the Guinness Book of Records as the Longest Journey by Amphibious Cycle. You may call him irresponsible, on a par with people hiking the Appalachian Trail, the Pacific Crest Trail or jump off sky-scrapers, but the opposite is true. This man is more than an adventure seeker. Instead, he has crystal-clear ideals, seeing the solution to the many problems the world is facing nowadays, pollution, disrespect for the globe, war, and suppression in educating our children. We should be showing them to follow their heart, discover their passion rather than money and personal gain. Only thus, people will be able to collaborate, communicate, help each other and pursue happiness for all. The book Ocean-Biker: On dreams, daring and collaboration urges you to examine your own life, fears, strengths, weaknesses and first and foremost your dreams, then learn to overcome and realize them. A sense for adventure goes hand in hand with an unabashed, infectious earnestness. A paradigm shift is happening right now and cannot be reversed unless we all take action now. Every minute we wait is a minute wasted. ??? This book not only tells a story but also hopes to inspire and motivate you to get out there and help us save this beautiful globe. I dream about a world without borders, where people have respect and understanding for each others differences but can share their knowledge, expertise and the planets resources. - Ebrahim Hemmatnia If you want to read a motivational and inspirational book grab a copy now!
